PERAUCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY, May 6-6 P. M. pertance. The ups and downs of the past few days have been sufficient to convince any one that the fancies rest upon a very rotten basis, and enough to satisfy all com-mon sense speculators of the folly of becoming in any pally large holders of stocks—and when they withdraw as buyers, or attempt to realine, a rapid depreciation takes place. All disposition to speculate, on the part of outsiders, has disappeared, and we see no indications of its return-The bears are not disposed to hammer the market very heavily, but are content to take the advantage of the difficulties of holders of stocks as they are presented. discountries to the class of inflated fancies generally, must eventually find their proper level. Speculators will soon find that they are nothing but a nadow, and those who now hold them with such pertina-ty will soon be glad to get rid of them at any sacrifice.

The Governor of Connecticut, in his message to the Le gislature of that State, gives the annexed statement rela glelature of that State, gives the annexed statement relative to the public finances:—

There was pull into the Treasury during the year end Ing March 31, 1863, from various sources, the sum o $150,650, which, together with the balance on hand at the sommencement of the year, of $39,130,03, makes a total of $189,180 63. The expenditures for the past year amount to $155,104 09. There is included in this soun, the item of $6,012 $3 paid in full of the State debt, April 10th, 1852, and payments on account of legislative grants to the Reform School, and for other purposes, $13,798 61, which, if deducted from the above amount, will leave the ordinary expenditure at $113,822 15, being a small increase only over these of the preceding year. This increase is accounted for mainly by reference to the judicial expenses, which have increased the past year, over those of the preceding, the sum of $4,565 32, and for which there seems to be no remedy, but by the adoption of some system which shall put a stop to increasing litigation.

In relation to banking and the currency, Gov. Seymour

In relation to banking and the currency, Gov. Seymour

In relation to banking and the currency, Gov. Seymour says:—
The recent scarcity of specie, which is partly caused by excess of paper money, has created the desire for the issue of fractional bills. This is a subject, also, which demands attention, and as there seems to be no provision against any such issues, the enactment of a law is required to put the seal of prohibition upon anything of the kind. If all bank bills under the decomination of five dollars, were to be atruck out of existence within the next year, the constitutional currency, increased by every arrival from the Pacific, would flow in to take the piace of bills, and give us a sound specie basis for legitimate business operations. That such a result is desirable, and that the time will come when it will be deemed the part of wisdom and justice to place the stockholders of banks, is print of liability, to the extent of their property on the same ground with individuals and partners in business, are propositions which can scarcely admit of a deabt. I suggest for your consideration, whether greater powers ought not to be given to bank commissioners than they now have. Either this should be done, or the banks required to make frequent statements of their affairs. These suggestions are prompted by a desire to ensure the greater after of the public, and at the same time, freep unimpaired the credit of the institutions themselves.

There has been a firm but somewhat irregular business sensile productions are ever numerous, but seldem very heavy, as the great facilities afforded for transporting goods thither by railroads, steamboats, and canals, enable parties in thosellocalities to visit this city and buy supplies as often as they need such, without incurring any oppressive expenses. The demand for articles adapted to the far Western and Southern trade has long since subsided. Dealers thence were here early in the spring, and as necessitated by the remoteness of their markets and the unavoidable tardiness with which merchandise is conveyed thither, made very extensive purchases. These have fully supplied the calls of consumers in distant interior cities and towns, and thus empowered factors there to save such a considerable expenditure of money and time as a second journey to New York would have entailed. These are, afer of the opposing features in our domestic traffic which can and will be annihilated, according as railways are extended throughout the land. The export inquiry for American fabrics is not very brisk, but may become so soon, as there are symptoms of an early commencement of preparations for the fall trade. Brown sheetings and shirtings are more inquired for, and are rather firmer though not dearer. Bleached sheetings and shirtings are less freely offered, and in better request, at the previous current rates. Denifis are gradeally becoming more abundant but being in meetry fair and are rather firmer though not dearer. Bleached sheetings and shirtings are less freely offered, and in better request, at the previous current rates. Denifis are gradually becoming more abundant, but being in pretty fair demand they realize former prices. Drills are not much needed, though they are rare and firm. Ginghams are quite as saleable as ever. The Glasgow and Lancaster Companies have disposed of all their spring's production at the extreme rates of the season, and the Manchester goods are now actively sought after at 10% a 11. Lawns are not generally in demand, the recent auctions having placed a large quantity in dealers' hands; a few select styles are bought with some freedom, to perfect assortments obtained at the public sales. Nankins are quiet and unaltered. Oansburgs are plenty and heavy, with a downward tendency. Frinting cloths have continued in active demand, and being rather sparingly tendered for sale they have improved in price, closing with a decided tendency upwards; the present range for the various styles between 40x49 and 68x72 is 4½ a 6½.c. All good and vendable makes of prints command a ready narket at well sustained rates, but inferior qualities are partially neglected, though offered at lower prices in order to get rid of them. This is one great oversight of some of our manufacturers, who imagine that anything will sell in propenous times. Experience has shown that consumers who possess and enjoy comparative wealth will over buy the best articles a market affords, rejecting such as are poor, both in quality and finish, no matter how cheap they may be the motto in all our undertakings, and their result will be both beneficial and gratifying. Stripes attract very little attention. They are duil and nominal. Ticks are in moderate request and steady in price. The following is a comparative statement of the shipments hence of cotton goods, during each of the first four months of :—

Jeffersonville is a ibriving city, situate opposite Louisville, on the Ohio river, and at the southern terminus of the Jeffersonville Railread.

The entire public debt and outstanding bonds of the city amount to only $160,000. Sixty thousand of the bonds were issued to the Railread Company, and the railread stock is pledged for their redemption. The 100 bends new offered for sale were issued for the purpose of procuring the means te grade and pave the public wharf, and landing, and other necessary improvements. The issue was authorized by unanimous vote of the City Counell, and has been since fully approved by the citizens in a public meeting.

The charter makes it the daty of the Common Council te annually levy and collect a tax, in addition to the ordinary revenue, sufficient to meet the whole interest upon the public debt; also, a precise tax, to be set apart as a sinking fand for the country of the logal voters of the city. and then an additional tax must be levied to meet the interest, do. These assessments are by the charter desiared a lieu upon all the real and personal property of the city.

The taxable property of the city. The taxable property of the city have since been greatly extended, thus adding largely to the taxable property.

The Jeffersonville Railread is now in operation to Edinborg, and shortly will be extended to Indianapolis, the eapital of the State. The property and business of the city has been increasing rapidly from the time this road was commenced, and the great amount of produce sceking an outlet to the Ohio river by this channel will continue to increase the business and preperty of the city.
